

Andrew Chesser
Manager, Registration Services
The Jockey Club

Andrew Chesser is the manager for The Jockey Club. Chesser, 33, has been with The Jockey Club since 2005 and holds a broad array of responsibilities within the Registry. Chesser works closely with Jockey Club executive vice-president and executive director, Matt Iuliano, and Jockey Club Registrar, Rick Bailey, in the administration of Registry operations, the strategic business analysis of Registration related matters, and the maintenance of the American Stud Book.

Since 2012, Chesser has also worked directly with the International Federation of Horseracing Authorities (IFHA) and is currently the Secretary General of the Federation. He manages the IFHA website, internal and external communication and plays an integral role in the marketing and branding of the Longines World's Best Racehorse Rankings published by the IFHA.

Prior to joining The Jockey Club, Chesser spent time at Blood-Horse Publications as well as other major Thoroughbred farms in New York and Kentucky. He holds a Bachelor of Science in Agricultural Economics with a minor in Business from The University of Kentucky.
